

Johnson's Plan for Higher Pay, Shorter Hours, Heads for Rocks

WASHINGTON—It is just one thing after another for General "Ride 'em Hard" Hugh Johnson.

With the automobile strike averted—for the time being—he turned back to his desk to find his pet plan of boosting wages 10 per cent, reducing hours 10 per cent rapidly heading for the rocks.

This dolorous situation is carefully camouflaged with cheery pronouncements. But unless Johnson can pull some new tricks out of his sleeve the plan is all washed up.

The committees of capital and consumer goods manufacturers, created to push his program, have had several conferences. But the only thing they agreed upon was not to agree.

Of course, they didn't say it just that way.

The consumer industries committee explained that it has done its share in restoring employment, that it is now up to capital goods to do its part. The consumer goods plants are now employing only 738,000, less than in 1929, the committee asserted.

The capital goods committee had a different line. "Lack of confidence" inspired by the Administration itself, by its stock exchange bill and by its Wagner Labor Bill had retarded Capital Goods Recovery, the committee said. Hence the manufacturers could not add to their labor costs.

Johnson is still hopeful that he can persuade the industrialists voluntarily to increase employment. His ace in the hole is the Congressional threat of compulsory legislation, such as the 30-hour week bill, unless industry acts of its own accord.

This, incidentally, is no idle threat. The Senate last year passed the measure; both chambers would do so with a whoop if the Administration ever gave the word.

Chip Off Old Block

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt may be First Lady of the Land, but she's just another member of the family so far as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is concerned.

Visiting her offspring at his New England school for a few fleeting hours, Mrs. Roosevelt wanted to keep her presence secret. She and Franklin were walking together in a secluded corner of the campus, but everywhere they were followed by a secret service man.

The First Lady got madder and madder. She didn't say anything, but she didn't have to. Young Franklin knew his mother too well. Finally he stopped, turned to her squarely.

"You might just as well not get upset about this thing. He's not really disturbing us. Let him follow us if he wants to."

Slightly Sour

The air mail fiasco and its aftermath have not improved the White House status of good old George Dern, the Secretary of War.

Dern has been an enigma to many of his Cabinet colleagues. Although showing occasional flashes of fight, he has won the reputation of being the sleepiest member of the New Deal. On top of this, the air mail incident caused Dern's cabinet status to turn a little sour.

Two things were responsible. One was the MacArthur statement that Roosevelt had not consulted him as to whether the Army could carry the air mail. Dern echoed this. It made him appear to be MacArthur's office-boy—which is close to the truth. Also, the President didn't like these

ART PATRON DIES

OTTO H. KAHN.

Sudden Heart Attack Fatal To Financier; Was at Opera House on Tuesday.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Funeral arrangements for Otto H. Kahn, internationally known financier and patron of the arts who died suddenly from a heart attack yesterday, will be completed today.

An announcement regarding funeral arrangements is expected to be made public at Kahn's home.

Mrs. Addie Wolff Kahn, the financier's widow, was reported last night to be prostrated and under the care of a physician.

The banker's death, coming with dramatic suddenness, provided a distinct shock for the metropolis, where he was a noted and familiar figure, as it had not been generally known that he was in ailing health.

It was revealed last night that Kahn was contemplating a trip to Europe in the near future.

On Tuesday night he was seen for the last time in his box in the famous "golden horseshoe" of the Metropolitan Opera house, and appeared to be in excellent spirits.

According to Dr. H. T. Hyman, the financier's personal physician, his death was due to coronary thrombosis, a blood clot on the heart. He collapsed and died instantly while at lunch in his office in the financial district.

The news of his death was not made public until after the market closed at 3 p. m., however.

DAIRY FARMERS TO REAP BENEFIT

AAA Working Out Sales Reduction Program; Spend $52,000 Here.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Dairy farmers of Pickaway-co. are to receive AAA aid through a sales reduction program, details of which are being completed here today. Tentative plans call for approximately $52,000 being spent locally.

The program is designed to boost prices in some measure offer relief to dairymen whose products are selling at per cent below pre-war figures. Unable to regulate milk production, the administration, according to its announcement, means to control the sale of surplus which goes into butter, cheese and other products.

Dairy farms in Pickaway-co. have a daily milk output of about 11,000 gallons. The program, details of which are to be announced next week, will allow farmers about 13 cents a gallon for every quart they keep from reaching the market. It does not, however, place a restriction on fluid consumption.

Certified Copies of Warrant on Way to Istanbul for Action

WILL FACE TRIAL

Treaty Between Nations is Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Turkey has definitely consented to arrest Samuel Insull for extradition proceedings, upon receipt of certified copies of a warrant for his arrest and the indictment against him, American Minister Robert P. Skinner at Istanbul notified the state department today.

Pending receipt of the warrant and indictment papers, the Turkish government has agreed to detain Insull on the Greek freighter Malotios in the port of Istanbul.

WARRANT CABLED

The state department last night cabled a copy of the warrant for Insull's arrest and arranged for a copy of the indictment to be delivered to the Turkish government within a day or two.

Skinner reported the Turkish government proposed to refer the papers in the case to a Turkish court under a pertinent article of the Turkish penal code together with Ambassador Skinner's request for extradition.

Assurances also have been received from the Turkish government that it will do its utmost to rush immediate ratification of the new extradition treaty with this country in order to facilitate extradition of Insull.

The Turkish government is expected to seek ratification of the treaty tomorrow. Once it has been approved by the Turkish assembly, only an exchange of the American and Turkish ratifications remains to make it effective. This exchange takes place at Ankara and can be carried out within a few minutes.

CONFIDENT OF RETURN

American officials were confident that Turkey's willingness to co-operate would soon find Insull on his way back to Chicago to stand trial in connection with the collapse of his middle west utility empire.

$25,000 ACTION SET FOR APRIL 16

Attorneys Notified in Massie Against Clifton and Fritz Petition.

Judge J. W. Adkins announced Friday that the $25,000 damage suit of Willard S. Massie, of Ironton, administrator of the estate of the late Anna Massie against Elmer E. Clifton, this city, and J. F. Fritz, Portsmouth, has been definitely set down for Monday, April 16. All attorneys in the case have been notified of the date.

Massie is suing for wrongful death of his wife who died after an auto crash near the Bayer tourist camp on the Scioto trail. Several cars figured in the crash including Mr. Clifton's wrecker which it is charged was parked on the wrong side of the road after an earlier collision.

MRS. BOWDLE DIES

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bowdle, 77, widow of William A. Bowdle, died Thursday at her home in Deerfield-twp, Ross-co., of chronic nephritis. She was a native of Noble-co. Six children, three sons and three daughters, survive.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the residence with interment in Concord cemetery, Frankfort, by C. E. Hill.

The second of a series of articles copied from the book of C. C. Ben on the conflict with Morgan's raiders follows. The first was more or less explanatory while this sees the Pickaway-co. men in Chilli-coe ready for action.

The Pickaway boys, in obedience to the call of the Governor, arrived at Chilli-coe about daylight, July 15, after a night's comfortable ride on the deck of a canal boat, and found most of the good people there reposing in security, as if no enemy was at their door. 2 BURNED IN HOTEL BLAZE

Third Man Dies of Shock; Many Injured in Leaps From Texas Building.

LONGVIEW, Tex., March 30.—Two persons were burned to death, twenty were injured and one man died of fright when a blaze of determined origin swept the Longview hotel here early today with a property loss of $300,000.

At mid-morning the ruins of the structure were being combed for other possible victims.

Known fatalities as a result of the fire mounted to three when Herman Yates who lived near the hotel died of shock.

One of the persons who lost their lives in the blazing building, only one, D. F. Safford of Dallas, had been identified. Another body, burned beyond recognition, was found in the ruins.

Safford was killed when he dived from a third story window. The fire, spread with such devouring rapidity that it was with difficulty guests were aroused in time to rush or leap to safety.

Many remained unaccounted for. The hotel had 112 rooms and about 70 guests registered. Hotel records were burned.

Many of the injured were hurt in daring leaps to safety. Scenes of wild confusion ensued as the guests made efforts to escape the rapidly spreading flames.

CWA IS ENDED SATURDAY EVE

Several Projects To Be Discontinued; Office Force Reduced To Two.

Slashing the present number of employees to 60, who will be retained under the PERA program, the Civil Works administration reaches its end Saturday.

The death-knell of the CWA means that several projects will be discontinued. They are state highway work on Route 188, Logan Elm, ground and water survey and secretarial complaint commission.

The CWA officers, A. J. Dunne, administrator, and Ernie Weiler, administrator of the others in the office are ended Saturday evening. Dunkle and Weiler are included in the "work division" under the relief program.

Projects to be continued, all of which are in Circleville, and the Northend sewer, Walnut-st school, Memorial Hall, armory, and Berger hospital landscaping.

MENTIONS WALLACE

Brief Probe Seen With $500 Appropriated

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Dr. William A. Wirt, the Gary (Ind.) educator who said some "brain trusters" revealed to him a plan to overthrow the present social order, will face a House investigating committee probably on Thursday.

Rep. Buwinkle (D) of North Carolina, chosen by Speaker Rainey as chairman of the special committee unanimously created by the House, was making preliminary plans for the inquiry today.

A brief investigation was planned by Buwinkle. Dr. Wirt will be called upon to name the "brain trusters" he said he talked to last summer. And any "brain trusters" named will be summoned.

WANT INFORMATION "If anybody told Dr. Wirt that there is a plan to prolong destitution so that the form of government can be changed we want to know it," said Buwinkle.

"For the member of the administration to attempt to halt the President's Recovery program for such purpose comes pretty close to treason. It is not treason to advocate revolution."

Buwinkle joined with Rep. Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic leader, in declaring that any administration members who made the statements claimed by Dr. Wirt should be turned out of office.

The House provided only $500 to finance the inquiry. Meantime, Rep. Foulkes (D) of Michigan, who assailed Dr. Wirt Continued on Page Eight

Rural Mail Men Exempted From 4-Day Furlough

Ashville, New Holland, Orient, Williamsport Offices Included In Order.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30.—The assistant postmasters and all postal clerks at the postoffices at Ashville, New Holland, Orient, and Williamsport will be exempt from the four-day payless furlough recently ordered by Postmaster General Farley for employees of this department.

Farley's furlough order, the target of sharp criticism from both the press and the public, the post-office department today announced the second modification of the order to be approved within ten days. As a result of this modification, assistant postmasters and postal clerks at third class post-offices will be completely exempt from the furlough.

The Ashville, New Holland, Orient and Williamsport postoffices are all in the third class. The modification announced today also exempts special delivery messengers and job cleaners receiving less than $720 per year and provides that substitute employees shall receive full compensation for the time they are employed.

Increasing postal revenue will, it is expected, do away with the necessity for further furloughing as an economy measure, after the first of July, according to officials of the postoffice department.

CHURCH ADDS 69 MEMBERS

Communion, Reception of Members at M. E. Church Largest in Many Years.

A capacity crowd attended the First Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening when Holy Communion was observed by the largest number of communicants in the reaction of the oldest members. The pastor, Rev. Herman A. Sayre, was assisted at the communion table by Dr. R. T. Campbell, of Bagget, Vt., and Rev. C. L. Thomas.

At the opening of the service Rev. Sayre baptized 14 and received 69 into the fellowship of the church, 52 of whom were adults and 17 young people.

Rev. Sayre, besides the large number added Thursday night, has restored 17 persons to active membership in the church.

Mrs. J. P. Moffit sang "Come Ye Disconsolate" and the choir sang "Tis Midnight on Olive's Brow."

The candle-lighting and illuminated cross effect were very impressive and added much to the beauty of the service.

Large crowds attended services in other churches last night and many filled the churches this afternoon for Good Friday rites. Additional services are planned this evening with the season's climax being reached Easter Sunday.

JACKSON LUMBER COMPANY BURNED

JACKSON, March 30.—Damage was estimated today at $10,000 in the fire that swept the main manufacturing unit of the Buckeye Mill and Lumber Company plant here late yesterday.

POLICE SMALLWOOD IN CONFLICT

Argument in City Hall Leads to Fisticuffs; Charge is Filed

CLEAR MOORE JAIL

Clark, Jerry Smallwood Bound to Grand Jury

Two new developments had been added today in the investigation of the robbery of the Elyar Glass station, N. Court-st., with Clarence Clark and Jerry Smallwood charged with the crime.

One was a display of force engaged in by Officer William Crady and Frank Smallwood, father of the youth accused of robbery. It occurred in the building during an argument between the two men. Smallwood reported to have struck Crady knocking him down. The was not hurt and Smallwood putting Smallwood into jail.

The man was released, the policeman declared, on charges against him. The case followed Smallwood's that McCrady had been Smallwood's part in the robbery. The officer denied the charge.

ADMIT ROBBERY The other development was the admission by Smallwood that he had admitted robbing the Elyar Glass station, N. Court-st., months ago. Some time ago, Smallwood was found by McCrady, Charles Radcliff, and investigation. The case was then dropped.

Mayor W. B. Cady and Smallwood were under attack after they pleaded charge of robbing the station. They were unable to bond and are held in the jail awaiting grand jury action. The case is not scheduled for trial until next month.

The guilty plea came from Prosecutor Ray W. Cady, who have parole revoked and sent to state penitentiary immediately if he follow that course. Cady paroled from the Logan farm after serving a year for robbing the station. Neal service station, Williamsport, while Smallwood is on parole. Judge J. W. Commerce Chief Routs Robbers

COLUMBUS, March 30.—Theodore H. Tangeman, Ohio's state director of commerce, was nursing two loose teeth today, but he showed two would-be bandits more than their match in hand-to-hand combat.

Ignoring the finance director last night as he was walking along a dimly lighted street toward his home, the bandits, one of whom was armed, attempted to hold up the state official.

Tangeman related, "Before I could grab him he ran down the street and disappeared in the darkness." "How about the other robber?" the commerce director was asked. "Oh, him! He was well on his way before the other even started to run."

Struggle for Power in La Belle France

PREMIER DOUMERGUE LEON DAUDET MARCEL BUCARD

That an attempt to overthrow the government of Premier Gaston Doumergue will be made in the near future is the belief of keen political observers on the French scene. Not only are the Communists, emboldened by the Stavisky scandal, more powerful than ever, but L'Action Francaise, the royalist movement, under Leon Daudet, took a new lease on life following the rioting of February. However, the growth of Fascism is the greatest menace to the government. The National Confederation of War Veterans, numbering 3,500,000, is demanding a new deal. Fascist in principle, the group is affiliated with other more militant veteran bodies, notably the Croix de Feu and Les Briscards, whose leader is Marcel Bucard. It is an open secret that members of these organizations are drilled and armed. Nor do their officers make any secret of the fact that they intend to fight if their demands are not met by the government.

HOLY WEEK

Doctors of the Law in their brilliant costumes and many-colored robes. The murmur of many voices resounds through the air.

THEN CAME PILATE

All of a sudden, Pilate, the supreme judge, steps out on the gallery landing before the infuriated rabble that surges like a turbid, restless sea at his feet. The soldiers fall back a few paces and clear a space so that Jesus, the condemned, is clearly visible to all. Pilate, then taking Jesus, leads him to the balcony before all the people. And there, divested of his garments, and with the marks of the cruel scourge upon him, he stands. His sacred body is flayed and wounded in many places, and torn by lashes and cords, with nothing to screen it from the inquisitive eyes of the populace but the old rag of a scarlet cloak, which the soldiers have thrown around him, in mockery and derision. His head is crowned with sharp thorns. His hands are bound together, and between his fingers a reed is thrust in scorn. His eyes are filled with tears, that now and then flow over and mingle with the blood trickling from his bleeding brow. His cheeks are deadly pale, yet streaked with blood and defiled with spittle, which they have vomited into it. He trembles as much from weakness and exhaustion as from cold, and his whole form is bowed and bent with the intolerable weight of insult and of injury. At length Pilate, pointing out this most pitiable figure to the assembled multitude, exclaims: "Ecce Homo!" "Behold the Man."

Not a word of sympathy or compassion is uttered in reply to this heartrending appeal. On the contrary: the fire of passion and of diabolical hatred glows with a fiercer flame, and kindles afresh in every eye. Almost before the governor has ceased to speak, the priests and people open wide their mouths and the still air rings and reverberates with the deictal cry: "CRUCIFY HIM, CRUCIFY HIM!"

PILATE AGHAST

Even Pilate himself stands aghast at this unlooked-for result of his overtures. Yes; even this pagan is amazed that the contemplation of so much misery cannot soften their hard and hateful hearts and extinguish their envy. He is not alone astonished at their hardness, he is enraged and disgusted at their unspeakable brutality and at their implacable vindictiveness, so that filled with vexation and disdain, like a man whose plans have miscarried and been frustrated, he exclaims: "Then take Him you, and crucify Him, for I find no cause in Him." But they are not appeased or out off by such words, and shout more vehemently than before: "We have a law, and according to that law, this man ought to die, because He has made Himself the Son of God." But Pilate offered no reply. Then seeing that Pilate still hesitates, and that he is still endeavoring to rescue Jesus from their fury, the Jews cry out threateningly and menace him with evil consequences to himself: "If thou givest liberty to this Man, thou art not a friend of Caesar, for whosoever maketh himself a king is an enemy of Caesar." The threat produces its effect. He fears for his place and his office if he should incur the displeasure of so powerful a ruler; and calling for water, he washes his hands and tries to appease his conscience by exclaiming, in the hearing of them all: "I am innocent of the blood of this just man; look you to it!" (Matt 27:24). And the rabble, mad with devilish joy, cry out: "His blood be upon us and upon our children!"

REACHES CALVARY
At last, after many a bitter pang and many a merciless blow, the Eternal Son of God reaches the summit of Calvary. The Cross is flung on the ground. The beautiful form of the God-made-man is rudely stripped. He, upon whom angels love to gaze, is thrown down, silent and unresisting and as meek as a lamb in the hands of its shepherers. Contemplate Him there, my friends in His most bitter anguish. His divine hands never raised except in blessing, never extended save to cure or to console, are pressed against the wood and long, jagged nails are forced against the palms, and with an agony which no words can adequately describe, driven through those tender members, tearing and rending tendon and muscle and nerve and quivering flesh. Then the sacred feet, so delicately and so wonderfully made, are held down while the executioners inflict the same indescribable agony upon them, as with blow after blow of the hammer, they drive in the nails.

Agonizing as this martyrdom is, it is little as compared to the writhing pain that sends a shudder through every beholder, while the Cross, with its living burden fastened to it, streaming with blood from the newly made wounds, is raised aloft and then allowed to fall into its socket with a jolt. The slightest touch on the raw and livid flesh can hardly be endured; but Jesus supports the whole weight of His body upon His gaping wounds. Yet not a cry escapes Him. Not a complaint, not a murmur; not even a plea for a speedy termination of His sufferings, but only a prayer for His executioners: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." While His feet and hands are writhing and burning; while every muscle is contracting and every nerve throbbing with torturing agony, He forgets Himself to think only of the very men, the murderers, who of all others, seem least deserving of consideration.

BEHOLDS WORLD
From the Cross He beholds the whole world with its teeming millions submerged in selfishness; the rich indulging in luxury and ease, and hundreds of thousands immersed in impurity and infidelity, and for them too our loving Crucified Master prays: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." I too and each one of you, my friends, are present before him. Yes, as God He gazes into our hearts. We too are present before Him. He thinks of us—not confusedly, not as one of a mass, but individually and one by one. Just think of it, each one of us can truly say: From His cross He looks upon me and beholds my personal faults and sins and imperfections. I am before His eyes as He lifts them to His father in heaven. And while the big tears roll down His pallid cheeks, and His life's blood drops on the hard rock beneath, He thinks of me and prays: "Father, forgive him, for he knows not what he does." From the altar of the cross God Incarnate lifts up His voice and on my behalf demands for me grace, pardon and salvation. Oh! wondrous mystery. Oh! mystery of infinite love and compassion! "Greater love than this no man hath, that he lay down his life for his friends."

Let us not shrink the cross of duty, nor seek to withdraw ourselves from the discipline of a true Christian life and the restraints that God's holy laws impose upon our evil inclinations and unruly passions. Yea, let us rather rejoice when called upon to share in some degree in the Passion of Christ and make the most of every opportunity till at least we are able to exclaim with the great St. Paul: "God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; by whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world." (Galatians 6:14).

"BETTER RETAILING" URGED BY SPEAKER

"Better retail selling is more necessary today than ever before," said F. O. Nichols, before the Rotary club, Thursday. "Greater attention should be given to selecting salespeople and training them in the art of serving and pleasing customers. This is particularly true under N. R. A.'s minimum wage scale which has developed a new 'competition-incompetence' of personnel."

Mr. Nichols contended that in place of price appeal, merchants will now have even more serious competition, centering around four things:

1. Superior salesmanship.
2. Bigger, finer stores.
3. Improved services—credit, delivery, telephone service, quality merchandise.
4. More accurate records and accounting will be the basis of better management.

As a setting for better selling, better stores and improved services were recommended both of which are vitally important in holding old customers and attracting more people into stores.

Better use of advertising in newspapers to inform the public about merchandise, values, uses, styles, etc., was advocated by Mr. Nichols. Too much space has been given to advertising cut prices. What people want is good value in merchandise. People generally realize that quality is more important than price; so are suitability and service. "The codes cannot pull you out of the red. You must do that through your own management," said Mr. Nichols. "There is no magic in any code. Ignorance of the facts about what is going on in a business, guessing about where money is being made, where it is being lost and how much is responsible for many business failures. What it costs to sell must also be known and the cost controlled if a business is to make money."

"To make a profit the merchants should teach salespeople to sell more per person, per hour, and concluded by saying that "Service is the key to better business."

This period of bloodshed, anarchy and confiscation during the French revolution began after the fall of the Girondists, May 31, 1793, and extended to the overthrow of Robespierre and his accomplices, July 27, 1794. In this time, thousands were put to death.

She Buys Her Biggest Bargain Without Leaving The House!

REAL bargains bring women shopping in good weather or bad. It is one of the chief American pastimes to surge through a milling crowd in order to save 10, 20 or even 33 percent. Cooking with gas saves 70 percent compared to the cost of the next least expensive method of cooking. Yet, you shop but once for gas, and that is when the service is installed in your home. Each time you use the gas range you buy this bargain in cooking fuel, and it is not paid for until after it is used.

The use of natural gas for general household purposes saves the customer more than he pays for it. That is why we say, "Gas Doesn't Cost... It PAYS!" It would continue to pay the customer a handsome profit under a more adequate rate which would allow The Gas Company a small compensation for its service.

RAMPANT CONGRESS RETURNING TO FOLD

WASHINGTON, March 30.—After staging a dramatic revolt on government pay and veterans' legislation, Congress settled down today to prove its loyalty to President Roosevelt by promptly completing its legislative program.

There appeared little prospect of another serious revolt this session unless Mr. Roosevelt submits a controversial international issue. He cannot secure power to slash the nation's foreign debt's nor can he secure ratification of the world court this session, observers said.

TASTES ITS POWER

The unexpected over-riding of his veto on the independent offices appropriation bill gave the new Congress a taste of its power. The veto of Roosevelt was broken but the Democrats still have tremendous majorities in both House and Senate, ready to follow the President on other domestic legislation.

This was demonstrated when the House promptly enacted a bill, granting Mr. Roosevelt's request for power to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements. It authorized him to increase or slash tariff duties. The vote was 273 to 111. A three year limit was placed on the President's exercise of this power, as the only concession to the staunch opposition. The administration was in complete control.

The Senate meanwhile passed his cotton and cattle relief bills. Both measures drew heated censures from Republicans and some apologies from Democrats, but they were approved by comfortable majorities.

The new tax bill, already approved by the House, will be considered in the Senate next week. Its enactment was assured. There have been rumors the Senate would revolt again on the tariff. But they were discounted by leaders on both sides of the aisle. The Republicans and some Democrats plan to fight it.

VETO ON BONUS

The House passed the soldiers' bonus by a tremendous majority. A week ago the Senate would have defeated it. Now it may pass the Senate by a small majority but the inevitable presidential veto will be upheld by the Senate and very likely by the House, too. Capital Hill veterans believe some of the votes to over-ride his veto of the disabled veterans bill were cast that way in anticipation of sustaining his veto of the bonus bill.

The President's request for legislation regulating the stock market faces a rough path, according to indications. It too will be enacted into law, despite tremendous opposition, if the President insists upon it.

"KNAVE'S GIRL"

By JOAN CLAYTON

COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

With the others she went out to the car. She felt queer, not herself. Clark was driving. He and Marthe had the front seat. Julian and Phil were with Patricia in the back. Patricia listened to Phil's naive exposition of the Sky High club, nodded occasionally, spoke when it was her turn. The club was supposed to be owned by a gangster, so Phil said; it was constantly under police supervision, but, somehow kept on running.

"It's my personal belief that all the gangsters have gone on the stage," said Havenholt, grinning. "I'd like to meet a dyed-in-the-wool racketeer just once. What's that, Clark?" he called, for the man in the front seat had muttered something.

Marthe turned. "Clark just said," she announced, laughing, "Clark said that a bridge expert didn't need to meet a racketeer."

"I said no such thing!"

"Yes, you did, darling."

"I didn't."

The two in the front seat wrangled all the way to the club. Julian had not minded, he had, in fact, been rather flattered. But Patricia knew that Marthe was trying to stir up trouble between the two men.

The Sky High club was on a mean, quiet little street, given over in daytimes to business. The building was formidable, a ten-story loft building, dark now. A man who had been strolling up and down the sidewalk came up alertly as their car stopped. Clark showed his card. A door was unlocked. The five streamed into a dimly lighted, bare, uncarpeted hall.

"I'm thrilled," whispered Marthe. "Isn't it thrilling?"

They were lifted to the roof in a freight elevator. Marthe liked that too. Clark and Phil were frankly uncomfortable. Julian was curious. He admired this approach, rather. Good stuff for people who lived on Park Avenue. Then a dizziness came over them. They were slumping. They reached the roof. Julian was not surprised by the club. The others were. The club was all that its name had indicated. Sky High. It was luxurious, it was smart, it was modern, it was done in silver gray. There was a gleaming onyx bar. It was just another night club.

"Well," said Marthe, disappointed. "Is this it?"

"What did you expect?" inquired Clark, not quite pleasantly. "Machine guns at the door?"

"Just for that I'll dance first with Julian."

"You would have any?" Clark said in a voice pitched for her ears alone. Marthe pretended not to hear. She linked her arm defiantly through Julian's, strolled with him to a pocket-handkerchief floor where three other couples were revolving slowly.

That left Patricia with Clark and Phil. The two men looked at each other. Phil sighed and took a seat at the bar. Patricia stepped into Clark's embrace and drifted into a world of pure enchantment. She forgot her worries, her anxieties, her reasons for coming here, her reasons for daring not to come.

Let the future take care of itself while she waltzed with Clark. There are tables outside, she said, looking down into her flushed and beautiful face. "Why don't we go outside?"

"Don't you like this?"

"I never see you alone," he said. Beneath his breath he said, "Can't I ever see you alone?"

The music sobbed to a close and they started for a door that led to the cool of the roof. Three men were coming in from the hall; three men were dropping their hats and coats; three men were preparing to stop at the bar.

Three men were coming in from the hall. Patricia saw only one. That one was Bill McGee.

Patricia saw only one. That one was Bill McGee.

Patricia felt the pulses roaring in her ears. She thought for a moment that she would faint, that she must faint. She leaned against Clark, her whole body suddenly stricken. Had Bill seen her? Or hadn't he seen her? He was giving his hat to the check-girl. He would turn in a moment. He would see her then!

She darted through the open door to the roof. Clark, bewildered, followed swiftly. What was wrong? What had happened? The girl had backed against the edge of the roof, her eyes terrified in an ashen face. Just a minute before she had been smiling, delighting him with her gaiety. He could not understand.

"What is it?" asked Clark aloud. "There's a man inside," she stammered in a voice that rang with fear. "He's at the bar now. He mustn't see me. I can't let him see me."

At once she steeled. She had said too much. She knew it. She was conscious of Clark's bewilderment, conscious of the need for courage and absolute control. Clark was full of a thousand questions. Man-like, he wanted to take up her battle. But he wanted to know why.

"I don't want you to do anything," she told him frantically. "I only want to leave. I must leave."

"But Patricia—"

"Get me out," she said pitifully, as a child might say. "Please get me out. I've got to get out."

People were strolling on the roof, were sitting at little softly lighted tables, were admiring a swimming pool that no one had the audacity to use. At any moment Bill might appear for a breath of air. She was not safe here, not safe anywhere here.

Clark reached an instant decision. "Very well," he said briefly. "I'll take you."

And He Got Away With It

THREE hod carriers were figuring their day's earnings. They were paid according to the number of trips made past a checker at the top of a ladder.

They delivered their load and returned down another ladder at the far end of the platform.

Two of them approximated the same amount, but the third man fell far short. This third man was also the most weary of the trio.

"How come Mike that you earned so little today?" asked the others.

"Well," said Mike, "it was too hard work filling up the hod with bricks, so I fooled the boss and carried the one load up and down all day."

BEFORE THE MIRROR

There's much of the fool in you and me
If we could but our folly see;
There's so much of weakness and of wrong;
Along the way which we have gone;
Skeletons hanging in every room;
Waiting to spoil our peace with doom;
Envy and hatred keeping us down
As we play the part of a silly clown.

We ought to laugh at ourselves I guess,
And each his funniness confess;
We ought to gaze in a looking glass
And see our foolishness en masse;
It would do us good to get a look
And see what folly from us took;
I guess we'd grin with a silly smile
And we'd stop to laugh at ourselves a while.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE is a Scotchman that lives in Chicago, and he has a radio. There was a lot of conversation at the club one day about radio stuff, but Sandy didn't join in. One of the fellows says, "Sandy, you got a radio, ain't you?"

"Aye, I got one."

"Well, don't you listen in on the programs every night?"

"No, I dinna want to burn out ma bulbs."

"But how do you get your money's worth out of the radio?"

"On the Sabbath, I used to go to church. But now I turn on the radio. There's nine morning services, and two at evening. I turn from one to the other when they're taking the collections, and I imagine I'm givin' a dollar in each basket. 'Tis a great feeling, and up-liftin' too."

How Science Discovers Disease

Dr. Copeland Gives Facts About Basal Metabolism Test

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

NO ONE will deny that great advances have been made in the methods of diagnosing the human ailments. The modern physician is equipped with instruments and apparatus which were unheard of a century ago. The discovery of the X-ray machine, microscope and other scientific machines has made it possible to detect the nature of ailments quickly and accurately.

It is only within recent years that we have been able to detect certain glandular disturbances by means of a special instrument. This is the basal metabolism machine, and the test is known as taking the "basal metabolism."

By this examination there is determined the rate or amount of energy that the body exerts while at complete rest. It gives an index of the amount of fuel the body burns to keep the heart, lungs and other vital organs of the body working at a minimum rate.

Value of the Test

The rate varies in individuals and is definitely influenced by certain diseases, particularly diseases of the glandular system. When the metabolic rate is increased, the condition is spoken of as "high." If the rate is decreased it is spoken of as "low" basal metabolism.

As a rule, the test is made in the morning before food has been taken, and at which time only a minimum amount of exertion has been expended. It is advisable that the patient rest for at least an hour before the test is started. This takes care of the excess energy that has been used in traveling to the doctor's office or hospital where the examination is made.

A successful test can only be obtained if the patient is completely relaxed. Emotional excitement, apprehension or fear, will give a false reading and be misleading.

As soon as the doctor believes the patient is thoroughly relaxed, a mouthpiece is placed over the mouth. The nose is compressed by an applicator that resembles a clothespin. This prevents nasal breathing.

Confirming a Diagnosis

It is essential that all breathing take place through the mouthpiece, which is attached to an oxygen tank. The amount of oxygen consumed, per minute, is determined by a graph on a revolving disk.

In certain diseases, such as disease of the thyroid gland, there may be an increase in the amount of oxygen consumed per minute. Of course, there are certain disturbances of the thyroid gland that lead to a decrease in this consumption and give a different reading. The readings are compared to those of a normal individual of the same height, weight, age and sex. One thing to remember is that a basal metabolism test is not a "cure"; it is one means of determining the cause of a disorder or of confirming a diagnosis.

Answers to Health Queries

I. S. Q.—I am a girl of 19, 5 feet 4 inches, and weigh about 140 pounds. What should I weigh? 2: I have been troubled by a pain in the right side for about three years, lately it has become more severe. The pain is accompanied by a hard lump which can be felt. Would this be due to some disturbance of the appendix?

A.—You should weigh about 124 pounds. This would be about average for your age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. 2: It would be rather difficult to diagnose the trouble without making an examination. Consult your doctor for his opinion and advice. Do not delay.

Take it from a cameraman. Most of the dangerous action scenes presented on the screen are on the level.

The action showed George O'Brien and Irene Bentley careening in a stage coach along a winding road. Planck's camera was perched upon a high-powered motor car being driven alongside.

Hanging on for dear life, Planck glanced at the camera car's speedometer. It registered 35 miles per hour, which is considered maximum speed for horses other than race track thoroughbreds.

Girl Scout News

Logan Elm Girl Scout troop No. 1 met at the Pickaway-twp school Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting opened with a flag ceremony and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Songs were sung. It was decided that each member should give five cents toward a fruit basket to be given to a school mate who is ill.

During the patrol corners some of the scouts passed their second class tests.

Games and refreshments in charge of Polly McGinnis and Betty Duvall were enjoyed.

Meeting closed with radio hand-clasp and taps.

WARNING

From the Mayor

to the Citizens and Housewives of Circleville

THIS IS A WARNING to beware of persons posing as solicitors, salesmen or inspectors seeking admittance to homes. They SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED UNTIL THEIR CREDENTIALS HAVE BEEN CHECKED UP AND VERIFIED THROUGH DEPENDABLE LOCAL FIRMS OR PERSONS.

IN MANY CASES strangers without verified and reliable credentials are "spotters" or locaters for professional criminals - and according to police records lack of caution on the part of the householders in admitting such strangers has often times resulted in costly property losses and bitter experiences.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE to strangers on any merchandise - as in a number of instances the customer has NEVER RECEIVED ANYTHING for the cash advanced - nor has any refund been made of the initial deposit.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS FOR STRANGERS or issue a check to a stranger as a down-payment on an order - often times these checks have been "altered" and later cashed by a third and innocent party.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY - be SURE you know who the stranger is at your door before allowing him to enter your home. In case you are suspicious PHONE THE POLICE DEPARTMENT AT ONCE - Phone number 53 as we are anxious to co-operate with our citizens at all times. HIGH PRESSURE - FREE GIFT ARTISTS have been working the residence district of Circleville recently - selling ALL KINDS of merchandise - using the method of "something free" to gain admittance to the homes. This has been - according to police record - a scheme just to get inside the home - as in most cases there is nothing to be given away free.

One NEED NOT BE AFRAID of offending the honest salesman, solicitor or inspector representing a LOCAL FIRM - as THEY HAVE THEIR CREDENTIALS WITH THEM and welcome such investigation - that is why they are required to carry credentials. Protect yourself - ASK FOR CREDENTIALS FROM LOCAL BUSINESS INSTITUTIONS.

Signed:

Wm. B. CADY

Mayor of Circleville.

Do Not Confuse
Representatives of Local Institutions With the Itinerant Peddler

Representative of legitimate local business houses, and growers of produce, who are furnishing employment to local people, paying local taxes, are entitled to an interview. Protect yourself. Ask the man who calls at your house, for credentials from local institutions.

Beware of this endless chain selling scheme

It is being worked with all kinds of merchandise--especially hosiery and underwear.

WHO WILL HOLD THE SACK?

The Latest in bargain appeals, as offered by these Hy-Jack Peddlers are the new Chain-Selling-Schemes by which merchandise is promised to coupon purchasers for a small cash consideration and a little work.

DO YOU WANT TO BECOME A PEDDLER and prey upon your friends---if you do try this one---here is a typical promise---made to you by the real slick peddler---

$10 WORTH OF HOSE FOR $1

Looks Good on the Face of it--What?

TRY and figure this---The Slick Peddler offers you a contract with three coupons for $4.00. Here is where you work your friends. You are to sell these coupons to three friends at $1.00 each and WHEN each of these friends send in $3.00 for similar coupon outfits or a total of $9.00 you are supposed to get $10.00 worth of some kind of hose. NOW you have made PEDDLERS out of three friends---and before they can realize anything for their cash they have that "little bit of work" to do---that is "create more Peddlers among their friends"---so on---so on---indefinitely.

IF you do complete this very simple contract---and your hose are delivered you are out $1.00 net, your three friends are out $4.00 each---or $12.00---and this firm has collected $13.00. WHO really pays for your hose? The firm or your friends?

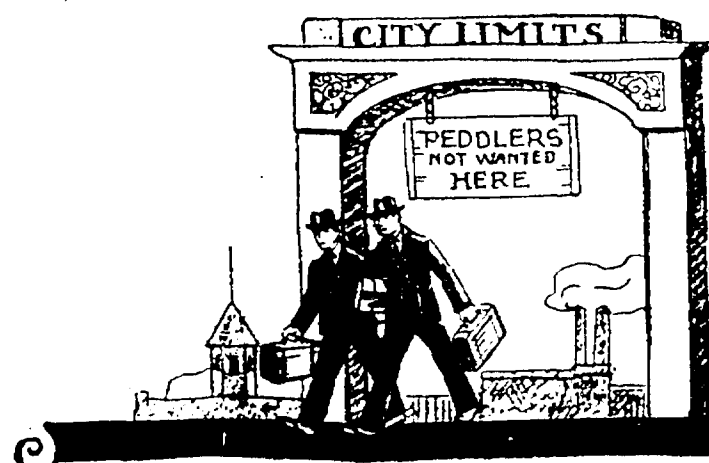

SUPPOSE the firm fails---after having paid for your $10.00 worth of hose out of the $13.00 collected? How could this firm refund the $12.00 invested by your friends? What about the running expenses of an office and salaries of this firm---

Who Would Hold The Sack?

IF the practice and policy of the Government in barring these Schemes from the mails is upheld by the courts, what might happen to the firm should it be denied the use of the mails? If the firm should quit voluntarily, What Then?

IT IS NOT BUSINESS SENSE to expect a firm of this kind to give each of its customers $10.00 worth of hose for $1.00. You can NOT take out of any business more than is put into it.

AGAIN---Beware of these Endless Chain Schemes---there are several varieties being offered today.

CALIFORNIANS HOLDING EDGE IN SWIM MEET

C. Has Stars Entered in Many Classes; Rutgers, Yale Fast, Too.

COLUMBUS, March 30.—The Stanford squad from the University of Southern California was regarded as the big threat today as the preliminaries were scheduled to get under way this afternoon in the 11th annual national collegiate swimming championship.

"Dark horse" of the meet, the Californians were expected to cause considerable trouble for the other outstanding favorites, Rutgers, Yale and Michigan.

Ample warning that the Trojans are determined to make an earnest bid to annex the collegiate crown, which never before has traveled to the west coast, has been given in practice splashes.

They have zipped off fast times and it was believed possible they may have the stuff to place in every event.

GILHULA IS STAR
Among the individual stars of the Trojan squad are Jimmy Gilhula, 220 and 440 yard ace, and Frank Kurtz, high diving champion. Gilhula undoubtedly will meet Jack Medina, world record holder in the middle distances, and the race between these two stars should be one of the highlights of the championship classic.

Rutgers is pinning its hope upon Walter Spence, national intercollegiate champion in the 100-yard free style event. One of the oldest entrants in the meet, Spence paddled 100 yards in 52.7 yesterday. The time was a new record for the Ohio State natatorium and 3 of a second within the Big Ten record.

Altogether, 106 swimmers, representing 29 universities are entered in the intercollegiate. All of the Big Ten schools are entered with the exception of Chicago and Wisconsin.

Michigan, the Big Ten champ, and one of the favorites to win the meet, has its Dick Degener, who will be defending his national living championship.

Northwestern, the defending champion, is entered in the meet, but from all indications they will not be able to retain the title this year.

Getting 'Dope' on 'Doped' Ball

You might think that this must be a remarkable ball to merit so much attention from three such distinguished stars as Bobby Jones (left), Ed Dudley (center) and Horton Smith (right). It is an unusual ball. It is "doped," treated with a hypodermic injection to give greater distance. Photo was made just before opening of North and South Championship at Pinehurst, N. C.

Training Camp Notes

DOTHAN, Ala., March 30.—The trade that brought George Watkins to the Giants in exchange for George Davis has justified itself already, according to Manager Bill Terry. It was Watkins who singled in the seventhinning and started a three run rally that enabled the Terrymen to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers at Orlando yesterday. The score was 5 to 4. Today the Giants engaged the Nashville Vols of the Southern league here.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 30.—Danny Taylor, Brooklyn Dodgers' outfielder, will be out of the game for a week as a result of a bruised knee, it developed today. Taylor was struck on the left knee by a ball in yesterday's exhibition game with the New York Giants. The rest of the squad is in good shape.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 30.—The New York Yankees had seen the last of the Boston Braves today and were glad of it. The Braves won their third straight from the Yankees yesterday by a score of 7 to 2. The game made it more apparent than ever to Joe McCarthy that his prime need right now is good pitching. It was expected that McCarthy would soon renew his efforts to lure an ace moundman away from the rival club, offering Lyn Lary, utility infielder, as bait.

Bowling News

The Aces won three games from the Container Corporation team. Thursday evening, bowling 850, a big 933, and 812. John Boggs, kegeling featured the evening when he put 246-209-183 together for 638 pins, a noble total.

ASHVILLE CLUB MEETS SUNDAY

Stoker Calls Prospective Team Members; Practice Will Be Held if Weather Good.

The Ashville baseball team of the Central Ohio league will hold an important meeting Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at Mithoff's restaurant, Ashville. Following the meeting players will assemble at Community park where a practice session will be held if the weather is right.

All ball players desiring to try out are urged to attend the meeting.

It is definitely settled that G. B. Stoker will run the club. He expects to have a strong team with Lerton Pinto, Davis, Rush, Walker, Trego, Toole, Chuck Koterba, Stoker, Pettibone, Beatty, Scott, and Mithoff in the lineup.

Rush, a catcher hit above the 400 mark while with Dublin last year while Koterba, an Ohio U. graduate, has a good reputation in Columbus.

The Ashville club opens its season abroad playing the first game at Grove City on Sunday, April 29.

WALNUT-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

Samuel Miller returned to O. S. U. after spending the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller.

Joseph Peters graduated from O. S. U. several weeks ago. He will take charge of his mother's farm. Mrs. Nannie Cromley returned to his home after spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bender of Canton, spent the week-end with Mrs. F. A. Carey.

F. A. Carey, a patient at Mt. Carmel hospital, remains in a serious condition.

The Walnut-twp. W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. J. B. Cromley on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Cardwell of Columbus visited several days with Mr. and Mrs. Riley Cardwell.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pontius and Harold of Lancaster, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Pontius.

The Walnut Ladies' Aid will meet March 28, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Homer Quillen.

The home economic department and the F. F. A. boys will give a parent, daughter, and son banquet on Thursday evening, March 29.

Miss Mary Mettler has been absent from school due to illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mayberry moved from the Mary Martin farm to Jackson-twp.

The condition of J. E. Weiser, a patient at White Cross hospital, shows little improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, have recovered from their recent illness and are able to be about the house.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

In geography period about three weeks ago grade five studied about political maps and relief maps. We then decided to make a relief map of our own.

We started two or three days after studying in our geography book. We carved different animals from soap and brought different things from home to put on it.

When we had all of the things we wanted we appointed two members of the class to bring salt and flour together with water and shaped it as the lines were drawn on paper.

We borrowed the school paints and several of the girls and boys painted the map.

We painted the lowlands green and the highlands brown except for the top of the mountains which we painted white.

The map looked very nice when it was finished and several of the other grades have been in our room to see it.

The second grade pupils are drawing and reading about the Easter rabbit.

Catherine Johnson of the 2nd grade is back at school after being absent two and one-half weeks.

The eighth grade is being introduced to the almost lost art of diagramming sentences. We hope that a few days spent in diagramming will increase our knowledge of the different constructions found in sentences.

The following 7th grade students were neither absent nor tardy during the past month: Jean Brinker, Lucille Chamberlain, Josephine Good, Helen Kibbee, Maribelle Miller, Isabelle Scoles, Virgie Lee Six, Ralph McNeal, Edwin Raver, Bernard Walden, Andrew Ward, and James Nege.

The sixth grade pupils have been making some very interesting note books in Geography and history, in which they are summarizing the most important facts to be remembered from their text books during the past year.

The Senior Class held a party at the school house Thursday, March 22. A radio and victrola furnished music for dancing while some versatile students demonstrated their ability along the musical line. Those present were: Mr. Murphy, chaplain; Richard Welsh, Richard Morrison, Warren Steinbrook, Buck Ward, Wink Wellington, Charles Fortner, Jasper Hedges, Charles McGlone, Donald Vean, Frank Williams, Everett Peters, Ralph Wellington, Catherine Marion, Jane Hudson, Edwina Schlegel, Martha Brinker, Georgia Bowers, Neva Lee Arthur, Mary Ann Stevenson, Helen Boone and Lile Hiles.

Due to special services in the local churches for the next two weeks the P. T. A. officials have decided to postpone the March meeting indefinitely.

The Junior Class Play has been put off for the same reason, also.

Edwina Schlegel, Ruth Smith, Georgia Bowers, Mary Ann Stevenson, Jasper Hedges and Frank Williams represented the Ashville Seniors in the test given at Circleville last Saturday.

As President Signed Navy Bill

ASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. John Sark have returned to their home after spending several weeks in San Marcos, Texas.

Miss Flora Peters, of Centerville, O., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Davidson and daughter, Dorothy.

Harley M. Plum visited Sunday with his brother, W. H. Plum and family, in Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin and family visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin and family of Springfield.

Miss Mima Kraft attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Macklin of Tarrion, Friday. Miss Kraft also celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Tosca and children, Joan, Jean and Harold, visited Sunday with friends at Dayton.

Master Luther Lee Cupp returned to his home Sunday after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Ford and family of near Iron-on.

Rev. H. H. Glick, pastor of the Lutheran church will conduct one the series of six, one-half hour devotional services at Trinity Lutheran church on Good Friday.

Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Mrs. Anna Cordray, and Mrs. W. A. Bowers spent Thursday with Mrs. R. L. Rowe of Robtown.

Mrs. Julia Weaver entertained the members of her Sunday school class Thursday evening at her home.

MICKEY IN RETURN

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Mickey Walker, former middle-weight and welter champion, showing flashes of his oldtime form, coasted to an easy 10-round decision over Tom Patrick, Los Angeles, who is not the world's best heavyweight, before 4400 persons including numerous film celebrities last night at Hollywood legion stadium.

Walker weighed 168, Patrick, 186. The latter won only three rounds and punched Walker solidly only twice, while Walker used a quick right with telling effect.

STELLAR ATHLETE
Davis met the girl at the close of school yesterday and she drove away with him in a borrowed automobile on his promise to drive her home.

The south of Petersburg, according to Sheriff Weathers, and there fired a bullet through her heart. He had borrowed the revolver.

They had been "engaged" for more than a year, Davis told authorities, but recently he learned she had transferred her affections to Weber, whom she had agreed to accompany to the annual junior class party last night.

Davis persuaded the girl to accompany him instead, but she told her friends that it was to be their last engagement. The young athlete heard of her decision and began to brood.

After the shooting he drove to the home of his parents with the body of the dead girl in the seat beside him. He left the car in front of his home and sought out a messenger whom he instructed.

"Go tell my father to look in the automobile."

The father, Lucian Davis, discovering the body, called Sheriff Weathers.

The youth meanwhile went to the residence of his young rival, Weber, where he was disarmed and turned over to authorities.

back door statements from the War Department.

The second was Dorn's obvious sympathy with the commercial air lines.

He felt that the air mail should be turned back to them, and in one White House session frankly intimated as much.

The President sat on him. White House relations were exactly unfriendly—but slightly sour.

Merry-Go-Round

Representative Lindsay Warren's defense of his ban on serving negroes in the House restaurant was a case where speech may have been silver, but silence would have been gold.

He made an eloquent speech, but a few minutes after the North Carolinian had stopped talking, Oscar DePriest, Illinois' negro Congressman, announced he had secured enough signatures to his petition to force an investigation of the Jim Crow rule in the Capitol dining room.

Every government employee, from the President to the lowest clerk, must take an oath of office before his name goes on the payroll.

The government's case on which it is seeking to indict Andrew W. Mellon for income tax violation is based on his 1931 return.

Uncle Andy was still Secretary of the Treasury when he made the return.

March 19, the day the House passed the Dies silver monetization bill, was the anniversary of William Jennings Bryan's birth.

He was free silver's most ardent advocate.

Business must be improving; R. F. C. loans are being repaid at the rate of about $3,000,000 a day.

If this pace keeps up the current fiscal year will see the return of approximately $725,000,000.

The automobile executives who participated in last week's strike negotiations tangled their relations.

They refused to see newspapermen, and when they finally called a press conference at 10:30 p. m. one night, they did not mean to show up.

Instead Thomas I. Ross, partner of Ivy Lee, publicity man for Rockefeller, appeared.

Ross announced that he would talk only on an "off the record" basis, so the reporters spent most of the time putting him on the griddle as to who was paying him.

According to the A. A. U. the U. S. "cow population" now numbers 26 million, the largest on record.

Murder of "Witch-Widow" Bride

MARRIAGE PROPOSAL FOR HEX SLAYER

That a young male goat led through the moonlight by a yellow-haired virgin can be turned into a handsome youth, is just one of the fantastic superstitions which receive wide credence in certain Pennsylvania communities where "Hexing"—witchcraft—is still said to be practiced and is believed in and feared. The recent slaying of Susan Mumme, "witch-widow" of Fernside, Pa., charged with which young Albert Yashinsky is now awaiting trial at Pottsville, was, according to the confession of the accused, the climax of nine years of spell-binding. Yashinsky says he shot old Sus after a "pow-wow" man had told him he never would be free from her spell until her heart was pierced. Yashinsky's fiancée, pretty Selma Bernstel, regards him as a hero and expressed a wish to marry him in the jail.

began dwindling into extinction today while in its place was being erected a new relief structure under the plans of the federal emergency relief administration.

The CWA, which since last Nov. 20 has aided thousands of needy Ohioans over the period of winter economic stress, will pass out of the picture tomorrow night when the last payroll of approximately $2,000,000 is paid out as the final week's wages to 95,000 workers. This week's payroll will bring the total amount of money poured into the state by the federal government under the CWA program to more than $45,000,000.

In the place of the CWA, and operating on a much smaller scale because of the reduced federal allotment, the state federal emergency relief administration will begin functioning Monday under the supervision of the state relief administration.

as either a "Hitler agent" or one unwittingly playing the Nazi game," aroused comment by asserting that Dr. Wirt had disclosed in a telegram to him the names of the "brain trusters" to whom he talked.

Foulkes said that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was one of them, and there were two other "important men." These he refused to name.

Foulkes drew his conclusion from a telegram sent by Dr. Wirt in answer to his challenge for a debate. In the telegram Dr. Wirt said that Secretary Wallace made the statement "there can be no satisfactory answer until we decide which way we will go."

Friends of Wallace pointed out that he had made this statement publicly in a discussion of the economic situation, and refused to connect him with Wirt's charges.

Rep. McFadden (R) of Pennsylvania, declared in a speech in the House that Secretary Wallace and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Tugwell "are working to establish a new form of government."

He assailed Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of Harvard university. Prof. Frankfurter, he said, is a leading figure for the foreign policy association, for which Wallace wrote articles on the economic future.

Prof. Frankfurter, McFadden told the House, is closely allied to a secret organization in England which is working to bring about a guild form of government, similar to the governments of Italy and Russia.

Rep. Fish (R) of New York, who named 12 "radicals" in the government service, added four names to the list of affiliates of the American Civil Liberties Union. Fish declared that he believed practically all members of the Civil Liberties Union are "Socialists at heart."

He named Fred James P. Wabasse, NRA; Robert Pechner, director of CCC camps; Dr. Leo Wolman of the NRA labor advisory board and Sidney Hillman, NRA advisory board.

Dr. Wolman, a Columbia university professor, was named neutral member of the automobile labor board created by the strike settlement.

Home Helps

Main Dishes With a Springtime Air

Foods in season are of greatest appeal to any wise housewife, primarily because they are economical. Menus should be varied with fresh vegetables and new ways of serving meats. Do you ever mash beets? Here is a cream vegetable dish using beets that is very tasty for winter-worn appetites.

Mashed Creamed Beets

Boil or steam enough beets to measure three cups, after rubbing off the skins and passing through a ricer. Season with 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 Tbsp. lemon juice, 1/2 C. whipped cream and 1/2 sweet pepper, peeled, cored and grated. Transfer to a baking dish, cover with 1/2 C. buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown. This dish should be prepared before the beets have lost their bright color, and, if the ingredients are still hot, placing the dish under the broiler flame will be sufficient to brown the crumbs and to heat through the rest of the mixture.

Lamb Stew With Mashed Potatoes

Wipe meat with a dampened clean cloth, and cut it into pieces. Cover with cold water, bring quickly to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Reduce the heat and simmer for two hours. At the same time cook the bones in boiling water to cover; strain and add liquid to meat and stock; set aside to cool. When cold remove the fat. Boil together an onion (sliced), 1/2 C. turnip, 1/2 C. carrot cut in cubes. When cooked, add to the stew and meat. Mix 2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper and 4 Tbsp. flour; add enough cold water to make a thin paste. Combine with a little hot liquid from the kettle; add to the stew, stirring constantly until boiling. Pour the stew into a baking dish, cover with mashed potatoes, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until golden brown. A beaten yolk of an egg sometimes is spread over the potato.

Fruit Coffee Cake

Fruit Coffee Cake is a versatile sort of cake—formal enough to serve hot, the first time it appears, with a scoop of sweetened whipped cream. That will be a delicious dessert for the most persnickiest person. Next morning, with cocoa or coffee, it is a breakfast bread-stuff that starts the day with interest!

2 Tbsp. shortening 1/2 C. milk
4 Tbsp. sugar 1 tsp. bak. powder
1/2 C. flour 1/2 tsp. salt
1 egg 1 peach, quartered

Mix in the order given, sifting dry ingredients together, adding them alternately with the milk. Put in oiled pan, cover the top with peaches and sprinkle over the peaches this topping: Crumble finely 1/4 C. flour and 1 Tbsp. butter; add 1/2 C. sugar and 2 Tbsp. cinnamon. Bake the cake 30 minutes.

Raisin-Filled Pork Chops

4 large pork loin chops about 1 inch thick, slit for stuffing
1/4 C. seedless raisins
1/4 C. finely-cut celery
1/4 C. drained crushed pineapple

Sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper. Combine celery, raisins and pineapple; fill the pockets with the mixture and pin the slits together with toothpicks. Dip into batter made by beating two eggs, adding 1/4 C. milk, mixing well and pouring gradually into 5 Tbsp. sifted flour, stirring to make the batter smooth. Fry the chops in deep fat at 350 degrees until they are an even golden brown and very appetizing in appearance. Drain the chops from the fat, place in a baking pan, add 1/2 C. pineapple juice. Cover the pan closely and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 1 hour.
